Untangling New Zealand's long-term future

Join us to explore New Zealand's long-term future

What do we want our lives, and the lives of others in New Zealand, to look like in 40 years time? What are the things we value most and why? What would be required to achieve these things? What trade-offs would we be willing to make?

Speakers include:

Hon Bill English

Deputy Prime Minister, Minister of Finance and Minister Responsible for Housing New Zealand Corporation

Hon Sir Michael Cullen

Former Deputy Prime Minister of New Zealand
Chair, New Zealand Post Group

Geoff Bascand

Deputy Governor and Head of Operations,
The Reserve Bank of New Zealand

Roger Dennis

Consultant: innovation, foresight, transformation

Dr Bronwyn Hayward

Associate Professor,
Political Science and International Relations,
University of Canterbury

Gabriel Makhoul

Secretary and Chief Executive,
The New Zealand Treasury

Patrick Nolan

Principal Advisor, Productivity Commission

Frances Valentine

Founder, The Mind Lab

Wednesday, Thursday & Friday 27, 28 and 29 April 2016

The New Zealand Treasury, Wellington

Day one of the workshop will have a focus on gathering information from a variety of speakers on what the concepts of prosperity, sustainability and inclusion mean for New Zealand.

Day two's focus will be on learning and applying foresight tools in order to turn the information from day one into a range of potential narratives about New Zealand's long-term future. At this stage of the workshop, participants will have their ideas stress-tested by experts in the field of futures thinking.

The focus of day three will be on communicating conclusions from the workshop to officials through storytelling and design.

If you are between 18 and 25 years of age and are interested in attending this workshop, please fill in an application form at www.foresightnz.org.

There are 36 spaces available in the workshop. Registrations close on Friday, 25 March 2016.

We are seeking a diverse range of young New Zealanders to share their thoughts and observations about New Zealand's long-term future.

ForesightNZ Workshop is an initiative of the McGuinness Institute in collaboration with the New Zealand Treasury.

The McGuinness Institute is a non-partisan think tank working towards a sustainable future, contributing strategic foresight through evidence-based research and policy analysis.
