Q2: What is a Government Department Strategy?	Screenshot of NotebookLM showing references in order uploaded
Based on the sources, a government department strategy generally sets a long-term direction and provides a shared vision. It is typically a high-level document outlining goals and outcomes, and key areas for action or steps to achieve them. It aims to inform decisions and guide activity. Strategies indicate necessary changes but don't usually detail specific actions or precisely how to get there.
